

FIG. 2

The diagram illustrates a 'Reply' email form interface. At the top, a black header bar contains the word 'Reply:' in white text, labeled 312. Below this, the form is divided into several sections. The first section contains two labels: 'To:' and 'Subject:', each followed by a rectangular input field containing a wavy line representing text. The 'To:' field is labeled 322 and the 'Subject:' field is labeled 324. Below these fields is a large rectangular text area, labeled 352, which contains two lines of wavy text. Below this text area is another rectangular text area, labeled 354, which also contains two lines of wavy text. At the bottom of the form, there is a horizontal bar divided into two sections. The left section, labeled 372, contains the word 'Send' in a bold, sans-serif font. The right section, labeled 374, contains the word 'Menu' in a bold, sans-serif font. Both sections have a diagonal hatching pattern.
